

ARRL almost got it right. They need to realize that the future of amateur radio is one that is totally free from a CW requirement.